Code Cares is an award-winning community outreach program that was created by the City of Garland Code Compliance Department.

Every day the City's Code Inspectors encounter citizens needing assistance keeping their property up to City standards. The majority of these citizens are elderly, disabled or financially

The program started out modestly. Code Inspectors would donate their time and equipment to help citizens on the weekends. The program has since grown and now most of the work is done by volunteers like you. The program was designed to connect those in need with those willing to help.
